However, Mr. Dunn says it is usual to call the twenty local fore-asters distributed about the country to Washington at stated intervals, and he must take his turn. The object, no doubt, is to test the ability of the local prophets with a view to putting some one in charge of the National Weather Bureau when the time comes for doing so.

"Yes," said Mr. Dunn this morning, "I dislike to leave New York even tempowarily, I expect to be back about Jan. 1 if nothing unioreseen occurs. I would rather do without the increased salary and stay in New York."
